

ABSTRACT

A manufacturing process for producing an ordered array of optical fibers is provided. The process includes providing individual optic fibers, arranging the ends of the fibers into desired groupings, and ribbonizing the resultant configuration. An apparatus to perform the process of manufacturing the ordered array of optical fibers is also provided.

103207 2757007